To Whom It May Concern:

SUBJECT: New procedure to obtain Test Car List, Fuel Economy Guides, & Federal Certified Test Results.

In the past, EPA has provided copies of the Test Car List, the Three and Six Number Fuel Economy Guide, and the Federal Certified Test Results. These documents have been provided at no cost to the requestor. This letter outlines a new procedure for you to follow in order to obtain this information.

Our annual mail-out of these documents has been in excess of 200 each, resulting in large printing and mailing costs. As are other government agencies, EPA is interested in cutting government costs and conserving resources. Therefore, this office will no longer routinely provide free copies of the above documents. We have identified below two possible sources for obtaining this information.

We have provided the U.S. Department of Commerce, National Technical Information Service (NTIS) copies of 1992 Test Certification Test Results, Three Number Fuel Economy Guide, and the Six Number Fuel Economy Guide. NTIS establishes the cost for each document. Ordering information is as follows:

An alternative to obtaining the information in the above formats is via an electronic bulletin board. EPA will have an electronic bulletin board operating by the end of the year. Additional information will be provided when available. NTIS also has an electronic bulletin board.

To order any of the above materials or to obtain additional information about the NTIS electronic bulletin board call or write NTIS at:

U.S. Department of Commerce
National Technical Information Service

Telephone: 703-487-4650

NTIS has also generated a list of the documents EPA's Office of Mobile Sources submitted to them since the 1985 calendar year. If you would like a copy of this list contact Vicki McChrystal at NTIS (703) 487-4634.

In summary, EPA will discontinue providing copies of the above documents as a standard routine. Please contact the NTIS for documents you desire and in the format you desire.
